Title of the practice: Social concern for pregnant women, nursing mothers and young children nutritional care in collaboration with Anganwadis of Durg District through Youth Red Cross Team of College.

Objectives of the Practice:

- As part of policy of social responsibilities the, the students of college who are focused members of youth red cross team participate in social & medical concern of region
- To continuously monitor the health issues of women & children associated with the anganbadis of region
- To find out the number of beneficiaries of low strata women & children associated with the anganbadis of district.
- This Activity is continue from Session 2022-23.

The Context:

- The Youth Red Cross Team of about 100 students from all streams under convener supervision have been selected to participate in visit to approx.80 Anganbadis periodically every month in groups to monitor the beneficiaries, the women who are pregnant, nursing mothers, infants and young children.
- The groups are involved in interaction with the subjects and impart basic nutritional awareness, address health issues to all along with the staffs of Anganbadi.
- Visit was approved through tie-ups with Anganbadis and certificates of conducts of our students were obtained through regular feedback from subjects and staffs.

The Practice:

Our college Youth Red Cross volunteers under the monitoring of Convenor has tied up with 80 anganbadis, constantly working for upliftment of underprivileged sections of society. The Anganwadi of Durg are continuously working for betterment of health & awareness of women and children of region. To contribute to society, our students are continuously making efforts for awareness of women and young children. The students are frequently visiting to the anganbadis and are carrying awareness programmes related to education and tips to pregnant & nursing mothers and infants and young children about nutrition and personal hygiene. They are also providing primary level teaching to young children.

Evidence of Success:

The youth red cross 100 enthusiastic members of college has established tie-ups with about 80 Anganbadis, and visited regularly to the anganbadis with purposeful programmes. The in charges have appreciated the efforts of college representatives. The beneficiaries have joined the sessions throughout overwhelmingly and have expressed as positive feedbacks for the entire programmes. Our students have also participated with high spirits of contribution to society.
